

LATOUR CAPITAL

OPERATIONAL EQUITY

January 14th, 2019

Latour Capital continues its development and the reinforcement of its team with the promotion of a new director and the recruitment of three collaborators.

Nicholas Whitbeck joined Latour Capital in September 2018 as a Senior Associate. Nicholas started his career in 2013 at Evercore in London, where he spent five years advising private equity funds, large corporates and midcap companies on their M&A projects, with a particular focus on the financial services industry. Nicholas graduated from HEC Paris.

Gaspard Lacoeylle was appointed Director in December 2018. Gaspard joined Latour Capital at its inception in 2011 and has been involved in many transactions completed by Latour. Gaspard is more particularly involved in the monitoring of YellowKorner, Syclef and Charlois. Gaspard graduated from Ecole Centrale de Lille and from Institut d'Etudes Politiques de Paris (Sciences Po) business school. He holds a master's degree from Ecole Polytechnique engineering school in Economics and Public Policy.

Tatiana Gagey joined Latour Capital in early 2019 as an Analyst. Her previous experiences include financial controlling at Ba&sh in New-York, private equity at Pechel Industries Partenaires and M&A at Michel Dyens & Co. Tatiana graduated from HEC Paris.

Chloé Legrix de la Salle also joined Latour Capital in early 2019 as an Analyst. Her previous experiences include private equity at Ardian in New-York and Paris (within the co-investment team) and in Transaction Services at Eight Advisory in Paris. She graduated from HEC Paris.
