

LATOUR CAPITAL

OPERATIONAL EQUITY

2 April 2024

In line with its policy of supporting and developing in-house talent, Latour Capital is promoting four Partners to strengthen its management structure and support the continuity of the firm.

Gaspard Lacoeyuilhe, Sylvain Dekens, Nicholas Whitbeck and Camille Defaye have been promoted to Partner after serving an average of more than seven years at Latour Capital and being heavily involved in the deployment of its last two funds. These appointments reflect Latour Capital's growth in recent years and, in addition to the recent arrivals of two senior Partners (Olivier Thiéblin and Jean-François Beaudoin), consolidate the structure of the management company, which now comprises ten Partners. These internal promotions reinforce Latour Capital's unique DNA and focus on maintaining a 'best-in-class' team, combining experienced business and financial profiles.

Gaspard Lacoeyuilhe Latour Capital at its creation in 2011 and has been involved in many of its investments. He is currently involved in monitoring Gutor, Hygie31 and Omni-Pac.

Gaspard is a graduate of the Ecole Centrale de Lille, the IEP Paris and has a Masters in Economics and Public Policy from the Ecole Polytechnique.

Sylvain Dekens joined Latour Capital in 2020. He is currently involved in monitoring Funecap, Kandelium, Sulo and Oxand. Sylvain began his career in 2009 at Deutsche Bank in the M&A team. After two years at the Fonds Stratégique d'Investissement (FSI), he joined Bpifrance in 2013 as Investment Director.

Sylvain is a graduate of SUPAERO and London Business School.

Nicholas Whitbeck joined Latour Capital in 2018. Among others, he is involved in the monitoring of European Digital Group (EDG), Groupe RG, Santiane and Primonial. Nicholas began his professional career in 2013 at Evercore in London, where, for six years, he accompanied investment funds, large groups and SMEs in their M&A transactions, mainly in the financial services sector.

Nicholas is a graduate of HEC Paris.

Camille Defaye (CFO and Head of Investor Relations) joined Latour Capital in 2016. He spent five years in the investment team before being promoted to CFO in 2020. He started his professional career in 2014 in the Transaction Services & Restructuring department of Eight Advisory.

Camille is a graduate of emlyon business school.
