

LATOUR CAPITAL

OPERATIONAL EQUITY

18 December 2019

Latour Capital further strengthens its team with two new additions to the investment team and two internal promotions

Sylvain Dekens joins Latour Capital as Director. Sylvain started his career in 2009 at Deutsche Bank, where, for two years, he was involved in the execution of M&A transactions in a broad variety of sectors. After two years spent at the French Sovereign Wealth Fund as an Investment Manager, he then joined Bpifrance in the large cap team in 2013. Acting as an Investment Director, he worked on investments across various sectors, in listed or private companies, and alongside private equity funds, families or industrials. He notably worked directly with Latour Capital for over 2 years on the Sulo deal (ex Plastic Omnium Environnement) on behalf of Bpifrance. Sylvain Dekens graduated from ISAE-SUPAERO and holds a diploma from London Business School.

Nicholas Whitbeck is promoted to Associate Director. Nicholas joined Latour in 2018 after five years working in M&A at Evercore in London. Since joining, he took part in the investments in Sogetrel, Atlas For Men and Primonial whilst also monitoring the investment in Nextpool. Nicholas graduated from HEC Paris.

Camille Defaye is promoted to Senior Associate. Camille joined Latour Capital in 2016 after beginning his career in 2014 at Eight Advisory (transaction services). Since joining, he took part in the investments in ERI, Syclef, Oak Nation and Sulo. Camille graduated from EMLyon.

Tristan Polaillon joins Latour Capital as Analyst. Tristan's previous experiences include M&A at Capitalmind in Paris and Private equity at Latour Capital (intern in 2017). Tristan graduated from Sciences-Po Paris and the University of Bath (UK).
